DETAILED ACTION

- This action is responsive to the following communication: Response to Election/Restriction filed on 05/05/2008.
- Applicant's arguments with election of species have been fully considered; however upon further examination of the present application in light of applicant's arguments, an additional species restriction is required.

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

- I. Species of the embodiment disclosed in claim 1 (see PG Pub, US 2004/0150856); in particular, drawn to an image forming apparatus comprising: margin adding means for adding a margin between the plural formed images when the image repeat process is performed.
- II. Species of the embodiment disclosed in claim 9 (see PG Pub, US 2004/0150856); in particular, drawn to a method in an image forming apparatus comprising: step of setting whether or not to add a margin between the plural images when the image repeat process is performed; margin adding means for adding a margin between the formed images if it is selected to add the margin. And program (claim 10) and storage medium storing a program (claim 11) for doing the same.

- III. Species of the embodiment disclosed in claim 12 (see PG Pub, US 2004/0150856); in particular, drawn to an image forming apparatus which includes: a first layout mode, a second layout mode and comprises a selector for selecting either one of the first layout mode and second layout mode, and controller for executing the mode selected by the selector. And a method (claim 15), a program (claim 20), and a storage medium (claim 21).
- IV. Species of the embodiment disclosed in claim 14 (see PG Pub, US 2004/0150856); in particular, drawn to an image forming apparatus comprising: a display controller to perform a first display operation for selecting either one of a first layout mode and a second layout mode; controller for executing the mode selected through the first display operation; said display controller performing a second display operation for setting the number of same data to be arranged in the first direction and performing a third display operation for setting the number of the same data to be arranged in the second direction; said controller performing the first layout process in case if first layout mode is selected through the first display operation; and said controller performing the second layout process in case if second layout mode is selected through the first display operation. And a method (claim 22), a program (claim 26), and a storage medium (claim 27).

2. The species are independent or distinct because claims to the different species recite the mutually exclusive characteristics of such species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claims are generic.

There is all examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would not likely be applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.
